

A Win-Win Cooperation for all Particularly our Customers

Flange working equipment supplier and global bolting training specialists, LAPP Equipment UK Ltd, have announced their agreement with UK based TensionPro, designers and manufacturers of hydraulic tensioners. Both organisations have confirmed that they will cooperate on speciality bolt tensioner projects.

Although the name “TensionPro” is relatively new to the market, the driving force behind the organisation certainly isn’t. With the combined skills and experience of Fred Heaton and Dave Metzger, both formerly of Hydratight and Boltight, TensionPro is a force to be reckoned with, already carving a niche for themselves in the sector.

Chris Stimpson, Global Sales Director for LAPP Equipment UK Ltd commented “We are delighted to be working with TensionPro. The experience of the key people, and the quality of their products will ensure our clients will once again, receive the very best application solutions and customer service”.

Dave Metzger, TensionPro Director added “LAPP Equipment UK Ltd have a great reputation for giving their clients the ultimate solution and great customer service. These attributes align with our own business strategy and this, coupled with their global reach, made them a good fit for us. We are really excited about the future potential for all involved.”

Yet another great example of the continued growth of LAPP Equipment UK Ltd as an organisation, and the growing list of products and services they can offer their clients.
